

MARS COCOA SUPPLY CHAIN DISCLOSURE

TIER 2 Farmer Organizations 2024

Publication Date: September 2025

Mars is one of the largest buyers of cocoa around the world. Depending on annual demand, we source globally between 350,000 to 400,000 metric tons of cocoa annually.

In 2018, Mars launched its Responsibly Sourced Cocoa Program with the aim to have the volume of cocoa purchased by our suppliers under our Responsibly Sourced Cocoa program be equivalent to the volume of cocoa ingredients we use to manufacture our products in 2025. Over the past six years, we have significantly increased the annual volume of cocoa that our suppliers have purchased through this program. Because Mars suppliers use the mass balance method in purchasing, processing, shipping and storing cocoa used in the ingredients of Mars products, the chocolate or other cocoa ingredients that we use in a specific product may not be made from cocoa purchased through the Responsibly Sourced Cocoa Program or cocoa produced, delivered and sold in compliance with the Mars Responsibly Sourced Cocoa Specification.

What is the Responsibly Sourced Cocoa Program?

When we refer to “Responsibly Sourced Cocoa”, we mean cocoa that has been produced, delivered and sold in compliance with the Mars Responsibly Sourced Cocoa Specification. This specification requires, among other things, that suppliers of cocoa have:

- Third-Party Verification: Independent third-party auditors review the cocoa supply chains of the suppliers and their farming organizations participating in the Responsibly Sourced Cocoa Program to determine whether they meet the certification standards of Rainforest Alliance, Fairtrade or another certification body approved by Mars or comply with the Responsibly Sourced Cocoa Specification.
- CLMRS: For high-risk origins in West Africa, suppliers must implement child labor monitoring and remediation systems (CLMRS) for any at-risk households of farmers who are participating in the Responsibly Sourced Cocoa Program.
- Polygon Mapping: Suppliers must polygon map the entire perimeter of the farms participating in the Responsibly Sourced Cocoa Program using GPS coordinates and be able to trace the cocoa produced on those farms to the first point of purchase of the cocoa by the suppliers.

Below are the Tier 2 Farmer Organizations that work with the suppliers from which Mars purchases cocoa through our Responsibly Sourced Cocoa program. This list excludes cocoa ingredients used by licensees who are authorized to manufacture and sell products under one of our brands and cocoa ingredients used by businesses that we acquired within the prior 2 years. Country of origin, farmer groups and supplier volumes fluctuate regularly. This information is based on reports from suppliers and agreements with suppliers.
